SELF-CULTURE

CLUB ORGANIZED.

Mrs. Coleburn, of Birmingham, Makes Instructive Talk to the Members.

A long felt want in our city seems to have been fulfilled in the organization, last Friday evening, of the "Twentieth Century Self-culture Club," by Mrs. Coleburn, State organizer, in the parlors of the beautiful home of Mrs. Geo. W. Staples. The organizer's talk was rich and profuse with instructive ideas. These clubs have already been organized in many states and also in many countries abroad. One of the main purposes of the club is to carry the mother thought into all that concerns or touches childhood in home, school, church or state, to raise the standard of home life and bring into closer relation the home and school, so parents and teachers may co-operate intelligently in the education of the child. In the course of study will be taken up the very best methods of developing all sides of a child's life into broad and useful fields of manhood and womanhood that it must meet handicapped by lack of early training. The club in Columbia was organized with quite a number of members and it is hoped that there will be many more to give their membership into this helpful and wonderful work that has accomplished so much for others and which places our city among those of great civic pride that consider this movement for better mothers and better citizenship for our boys and girls, one of the paramount issues of the nation. The necessity of it is felt on all sides and it is hoped that the work accomplished here will make a favorable comparison with that of other towns of our size or even greater.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Mrs. Z. T. Williams, President
Mrs. Willie B. Hines, First Vice President
Mrs. R. V. Chapin, Second Vice President

The State Educational meeting held at Louisville, last week, was largely attended, many of the prominent educators of the State being in attendance. Those who attended from Adair county report a most profitable and enjoyable meeting.

Mr. Andrew Powell and Mrs. Emeline Holt, who live in the White Oak country, were issued licenses to wed last Thursday. Mr. Powell is 73 years old and Mrs. Holt the same age. It was to be the intended groom's first venture. He stated to the clerk that himself and Mrs. Holt, were schoolmates in their younger days. Henry Thomas and Lottie Robinson were also issued licenses to wed. They live at Speck, Casey county.

Nearing the Century Mark.

Mrs. Nancy Acre, who lives two miles beyond Roy, Adair county, will be one hundred years old the 10th day of May. She is in fairly good health, and she wants as many of her friends as possible to call and see her on that day. It is said that she can tell many interesting stories of events of long ago. She had two brothers who lived to be over one hundred, the last one dying three years ago at 102.

A Card.

Mr. W. E. McCandless desires to return his sincere thanks to the people of Columbia and vicinity who so liberally traded with him during the two years he was in the grocery business. He came to this place a stranger and he now believes he has many warm friends in the community, and their friendship he hopes to maintain. He will continue to live in Columbia, but is undecided as to the business he will engage in.

Special Notice.

All persons owing the late firm of Nell & McCandless are requested to call at the store of Nell & Hill and make payment. The old firm's outstanding business must be settled.

Nell & McCandless.

Mr. Arvest Hill, who bought Mr. W. E. McCandless' one-half interest in the grocery store of Nell & McCandless, is now at his place of business, the inventory having been completed last Thursday. As soon as the Lindsey-Wilson closes for the summer, Mr. Hill and wife will move into the college now occupied by Mr. Bob Faulkner's wife and children. It is known as the G. P. Smythe cottage.

Examinations.

The examination for Common School Diploma will be held at the Superintendent's office on May 14 and 15. This diploma shows that the holder has completed the eight grades of the common school course and is entitled to free tuition in the County High School.

The examination for White Teachers certificates will be held at the Columbia Graded School building on May 21 and 22. All applicants are urged to be on the ground by 8 o'clock a. m., so that the work may begin, if possible, by 8:30, allowing half an hour for preliminaries. Composition tablets for the examination work and scratch tablets for the rough work in arithmetic, etc., will be furnished at the examination, the applicant paying 5 cents for each tablet. Applicants will furnish their own pen and ink or pencils. All applicants must be of unquestioned moral character, and at least 18 years of age prior to the examination. No person known to be profane, obscene, licentious, intemperate or a gambler need to apply. No whisky drinker or cigarette smoker will be admitted, if the fact is known. No use of tobacco will be allowed on the grounds during the examination.

The colored teachers examination will be held on May 28 and 29. Applicants will meet at the Superintendent office and there they will be informed as to the place of holding the examination. The same regulations and restrictions will apply to this examination as to that of the whites.

Respectfully,

Tobias Huffaker, Supt. A. C. S.

Fruit Prospects.

We learn from our exchanges that the prospects for an abundant fruit-crop are very flattering. Some State paperf we read say that there has not been a better prospect for an all round fruit season for many years. There are different reports from farmers of Adair county. While some report that the peaches are greatly damaged, others say that the trees will break down with the luscious fruit.

The Ladies of the Presbyterian church will have a sale of good things to eat on Saturday May 1st at Eubank & Summers millinery store. All kinds of tempting delicacies for Sunday dinner at very reasonable prices.

Knoxville, 17, 1915.

Editor News:

Are the people of Columbia and Adair county taking any interest in the proposed Dixie Highway from Chicago Ill., to Miami, Florida?

It seems to be the general opinion that this road, a through road from the lakes to the gulf, will certainly be constructed in the near future. Its route seems to be pretty well established except from Indianapolis to Chattanooga. Commissioners have been appointed to locate it. There are three or four suggested routes. One would carry it through Louisville, by way of Mammoth Cave and Bowling Green, to Nashville, another through Louisville, Bardstown, Columbia, Albany, Crossville, Tenn., and thence to Chattanooga; another by Cincinnati and Lexington to the same point; and still another by Cincinnati, Lexington and Richmond to the Cumberland Gap, and thence by roads already nearly completed via., Knoxville to Chattanooga. This last route would strike the Boone Highway in Central Kentucky, and would follow the wilderness way which our pioneer fathers traveled when they came from Virginia to settle Kentucky. This Boone Highway is already an assured fact, as all these mountain counties in Kentucky except one have taken action for its construction, and there are only one or two counties in Tennessee without a connection already established.

In the Courier-Journal a few days ago, a map was given which placed Columbia and Albany on what is known as the most direct route. A Knoxville Daily, which is before me as I write, also maps the several proposed routes, placing the same towns on the central route, and devoting four columns to the road and its advantages.

The fact that our town is on the shortest proposed route, and that it is conceded that it is one which may possibly be adopted, should awaken us to an interest in the subject.

At the recent meeting of the Governors of the States interested and other citizens, held at Chattanooga, Monticello and Albany were both represented, but there was no one from Adair. It seems to me that Adair, Russell, Cumberland and Clinton and the counties on the line between Columbia and Louisville should get in touch with each other, so as to present to the best advantage this central and shortest route to the commissioners who will locate the road.

Even the route should be selected by way of Cincinnati, we would still be on a very direct line—and perhaps as good as could be selected. It will be remembered that in the building of the Cincinnati Southern, the route through Adair county received consideration, and that an earlier day what is known as the Gunn survey, was made for a railroad in the same general direction proposed. One advantage that we have in addition to distance is, that we already have pike connection with Louisville, and also via., Lexington with Cincinnati. We would only have to fill in the gap from Columbia to Albany, or through a part of Adair and Cumberland, to have a continuous line across the State of Kentucky from either city. With the road already being surveyed towards Russell, we would only have to construct an additional six or eight miles toward Creelsboro to carry it through Adair.

This is an enterprise which appeals directly to farmers as well as to tourists.

It opens up a highway of travel by auto from the East and North to the winter resorts in the South, over which thousands of tourists would pass each year, and along which tens of thousands of dollars would be left, besides opening up the country for local traffic and travel. In addition to the main line in a little while later roads would reach out in every direction as the smaller streams flow into the great rivers.

Is the enterprise feasible? It is not only feasible, but it is certain of realization on one of the routes.

Although the Lincoln highway, which is a road to extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific, has been in the public mind only for a short time, it is estimated by a writer who has investigated the subject, that, in its incomplete condition possibly twenty-five thousand tourist cars will pass over it during the present year to visit the exposition in California.

The road question is to-day the greatest question before the people of our county, and its interest is not confined to any one State.

It is believed that in a little while the Federal government will give aid to public roads in the States, and these national thoroughfares will doubtless be the first ones to receive encouragement. It will be a great day for Adair when her metal roads are built: it would be a greater day should she with them have this great highway passing through her borders.

HEALTH OFFICER'S COLUMN.

BY U. L. TAYLOR.

I propose to write this week about the fiscal court. It would be hard to separate the fiscal court from the health officers work. I was made health officer about 25 years ago, and have been continuously in that position ever since. The law authorizing the appointment of health officers requires the fiscal court to make a reasonable compensation for their services. That is the rock upon which I and the fiscal court have always split. It used to be common when the health officer did any work in his line, to present the bill to the fiscal court for payment, and after a good deal of wrangling and cutting down of the bill, the remainder would be paid. A good deal of prejudice has always existed in the fiscal court against the health officer, and for what reason I never could tell. The Kentucky Legislature a few years ago amended the law as to require health officers to work under a salary. Under the law the fiscal court fixed my salary at $200 per annum, I was then undertaking to run that office and practice medicine at the same time. I was at that but a little while until I found it could not be done. If the health officer had any smallpox patients on hand nobody with sickness in his family would have him. I remember I was once called to go 15 miles to see after burying a man dead with smallpox. I got through with the job at 10 o'clock at night, and although I stripped off my clothes and burned them, and put on fresh clothes, and took a general bath, nobody would let me stay at his house that night, and I had to wend my way home before I slept. Then I undertook to have the fiscal court give me enough salary to make a living and give up the practice of medicine altogether. Ever since I undertook this I have had trouble with the fiscal court. The law plainly says that the fiscal court shall pay the health officer a reasonable compensation. The fiscal court is now paying me $400 per year for myself, horse and buggy, which amounts to the magnificent sum of $1.10 per day and for which I am devoting my whole time. Under my labors the death rate from consumption has been cut down from 60 per year in the county to 30. The fiscal court in this county is no worse and no better than in any other county. There are very few health officers that will give their whole time to the work of the public health for the salary that the fiscal court will fix. I have been undertaking to do the work, and make the fiscal court foot the bill. The law says that the fiscal court shall pay the health officer a reasonable compensation, and the law further says that the county board of health shall indicate in writing, to the fiscal court the value of the services of the health officer. Notice the law says they shall. The law makers intended that this thing should be done. But what could be done, if the fiscal court ignored altogether the recommendation? It was not long after these laws were passed before the fiscal courts of the State got into trouble with health officers in various parts of the State, because the fiscal courts refused to obey the law. They were sued and quite a number of cases reached the court of Appeals. I want the members of our fiscal court to carefully read these opinions which I am going to give. A case went up from Kenton county, and was decided by the court. Judge Paynter deciding the case, writing the opinion. In this case the fiscal court refused to allow any thing for the services. Judge Paynter says, "The Legislature intended that the members of the local board of health should be compensated for the services they were required by law to perform. The discretion of the fiscal court with reference to the compensation to which such board is not an arbitrary one. It is a sound judicial discretion, and one that can be controlled. If the fiscal court has an arbitrary discretion in the matter, they could refuse to allow any compensation, however valuable and meritorious might be the services of the members of the local board of health."

Here is an extract from an opinion in a similar case by Judge Durrelle of the court of Appeals: "The county board of health has no power to fix their compensation. That compensation, like the compensation of the board themselves, was left to the discretion of the fiscal court, not to its arbitrary discretion, but to a discretion governed by the value of the services. Now let us apply this rule to my case before the fiscal court of Adair county. You remember that I was claiming an increase of salary. I had nearly one dozen witnesses, among the best men in the county, viz., Z. T. Williams, Tobias Huffaker, A. J. Combest, Dr. C. M. Russell, Dr. E. B. Atkinson, Dr. N. M. Hancock, Dr. E. T. Salles, Logan C. Winfrey and myself. All without a dissenting voice, put the value of my services at not less than $800. Not a witness was introduced on the other side, and the judge in this case says the compensation must be fixed by the testimony. If the testimony showed I was entitled to this amount, then you had no authority to fix any other amount. Judge Paynter said: "If the fiscal court had any discretion in the case they could refuse to allow any compensations." That is what the fiscal court came very near doing. If Judge Paynter had been acquainted with the Adair fiscal court, he never would have said that their discretion could be controlled. I am writing this in pity, not in anger. I can hardly believe that these gentlemen intended to do me an injury, but the injury is the same, however the intention. Then the court offered me their sympathy. I would like to get some one versed in figures, to tell me when corn is worth 60 cents a bushel, and flour $3 per hundred pounds, and beef 15 cents a pound, and hay is worth $1 a hundred pounds, how long could I and my horse live on the sympathies of the Adair fiscal court? Then, some of the members proposed for me to leave off some of my work. But they had no right to make any such arrangement, and if I were to do a thing of that sort, they would be the first ones to howl because I was neglecting my duty.

In conclusion I can only say in the language of Stephen, the first Christian Martyr, when he was being stoned to death, he raised his eyes toward heaven and said: "Lord lay not this sin to their charge."

A Remedy No Family Should Do Without

No matter how healthy a human being may be it is safe to say that some obstruction of the bowels, in other words, constipation, even if only temporary, the bloating, the dull feeling may start after the evening meal. If a laxative is not taken that night it is certain that sleep will not be sound, and you will awaken unrefreshed.

Hence, it is important for you and for all the members of your family that a good, reliable laxative be always kept in the house for just such emergency. It is sure to be needed, and when needed, you want it at hand. No family that is careful of its health can do without such a remedy to have on hand is also of vast importance.

The laxative most highly recommended by the majority of intelligent Americans as being best for babies and grownups is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

sin. It is a liquid laxative- tonic, mild, and never gripes, is effective on robust people and can be given with safety to an infant. Children like it because of these gentle qualities and because it is pleasant to the taste.

It is the best all-around remedy you can have in the house for any disorder of the stomach, liver and bowels, and many people like R. H. Morgan, Price, Tenn., and Mrs. H. C. Davidson, Warrenton, Tenn., say they would as soon be without the necessities as without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Dear Sir: Please find inclosed amount due you to this time. I have been trading on tick with you for nearly half a century and if you continue to treat me as well during the next 50 years as you have in the past, I aim to continue with you during the remainder of my life time. To which having my letter before them they replied as follows:

Dr. J. T. Jones, Columbia Ky.

Dear Sir:

We have your kind letter enclosing $21.49 in full of your account to January 1st.

Business is always subjected to more or less criticism and compliments sometimes scarce. We cannot call to mind any one who has been longer with us than your good self, and none who has given evidence of knowing what he wants and how to get it with as little trouble.

We have passed through these many years serving you with a clean sheet, and while it is not our idea of an early end yet we fear that before the coming time you mention is on record, we will be over the dark divide. Still if it be our fortune to run it out, we sincerely hope you will be able to write us in like manner in 1915, as we certainly appreciate that letter.

Very truly,

Hogwallow News.

Lemuel Henstep died this week in Calf Ribs neighborhood. Besides the earth he leaves two children.

Poke Easley has been sent to Bounding Billows by his wife after a large water kettle, which he will have to pack back. Poke is her second husband.

The strange bulky object that was seen moving along the road toward Hogwallow yesterday afternoon has turned out to be nothing but Columbus Allsop and his bass fiddle.

Washington Hocks is recuperating from an over dose of rough on rats, which he took by mistake a few nights ago, and is able to sit up at the eating table with his clothes on.

A lady friend from the Calf Ribs neighborhood is preparing to arrive in Hogwallow to be the guest of Miss Flutie Belcher. The visitor will wear her best clothes and expect to attract a good deal of favorable attention.

The Excelsior Fiddling Band will give a music festival at the church near Thunderation tonight. If there is enough left out of the proceeds after Sidney Hocks gets through counting it, same will be given to Dog Hill church.

Somebody raised the window at the Wild Onion school house Friday night and stole the supply of red ink. The identity of the thief is unknown, but let Raz Barlow get tanked up on red ink and he is one of the finest scribes in this section.

The Mail Carrier is expected now any day. He left Tickville, as usual, four days ago, bound for this place, and if he doesn't reach here within the next few days the public will come to the conclusion that he has been delayed by some unforeseen circumstances over which he had no control.

Fit Smith passed through this place late yesterday evening followed by a drove of hawks. He had a sack of shelled corn on his shoulder, and the corn was noticed spilling out at a hole that had been made in the corner of the sack by Fit. This is what might be termed stealing hawks under false pretense.

Atlas Peck says never judge a man by his wife.

The backwardness of spring is going to cause a lot of our citizens to get behind with their fishing.

Columbus Allsop will from now on study the cattle markets each week in order that he may know just exactly what his calf is worth.

Dock Hocks says when you see a fellow sitting with the palm of hand across his cheek he either is an author or has the toothache.

Raz Barlow thinks our Deputy Constable should wear his star on the back of his coat, as most of the mischief is done behind his back.

A report has reached Hogwallow that the town of Tickville was flooded this week with circulars. No great damage is reported however.

Miss Flutie Belcher has a new spring hat. It has two long wings on it, and the next thing you know she will be making a flying trip to Tickville.

The Old Miser of Musket Ridge stuck his head out of the house for a few minutes yesterday, but slammed the door when he saw Ellick Hellwanger coming.

As soon as the postmaster can sell the rest of the Daniel Boone cigars out of the box he announces that he will have another nice new post office box for rent.

The mail carrier was several days late this week in arriving, he having stopped along the road to discuss the almost impassible condition of the roads.

The ladies of the Dog Hill church are making up money this week to buy the preacher a new pair of plow shoes. They will probably complete the task by the last of next week.

Miss Flutie Belcher has placed an order for a nice flask of perfume and is expecting it any day. Since she has gone and done this there will be no need of any sweet scented flowers this spring except to look at.

When the incessant rains were in progress in the vicinity of Hogwallow the past week a flood in Gander Creek seemed inevitable, and such there might have been had not many of our residents set large numbers of rain barrels to take care of much of this surplus water.

Prof. Sap Spradlen, of the Wild Onion school, is becoming very popular and if he keeps on he may later run for some kind of office. His presence was ever noticed in Tickville last week and the Tidings, of that city put his name in the paper, saying that he was a pleasant caller at the office Thursday. Prof. Spradlen announces that he will save these clippings for his grand children to look at in after years.

Splendid for Rheumatism.

"I think Chamberlain's Liniment is just splendid for rheumatism," writes Mrs. Dunburgh, Eldridge N. Y. "It has been used by myself and other members of my family time and time again during the past six years and has always given the best of satisfaction." The quick relief from pain which Chamberlain's Liniment affords is alone worth times the cost. For sale by Paul Drug Co.

"FIFTY YEARS FROM APPOMATTOX."

General Reunion, United Confederate Veterans, Richmond, Va., June 1-3 1915.

Richmond, Va., Apr. 13 1915. (Special).—Fifty years after the destruction of the Confederate capital and the end of the bitter War between the States, the gray-clad veterans of the Southern armies are to gather in the old stronghold of the Confederate States for the 1915 Reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, June 1st-3d.

Ceremonies the most solemn and unique are to be staged in Richmond during reunion week, and from every part of the South comes word of the thousands of visitors who are to attend. Arrangements for the care and comfort of 10,000 veterans have been made by the general committee, headed by Captain John Lamb. The granting of a flat railway rate of one cent a mile to Richmond for the big affair is expected to draw to the city 100,000 loyal Southern people.

The outstanding feature of the week will be the formal opening of the Confederate Memorial Institute, the imposing treasure house for relics of the war between the States, which has been erected in Richmond after years of effort. Another feature will be the laying of the corner-stone of the statue of Stonewall Jackson.

Beautiful Monument Avenue is to be converted into a court of honor, in which all the parades and ceremonies of the week will take place. Militia commands from all parts of the South, and from the North as well, are to attend. The event gives promise of being note-worthy in the extreme.

Invitations have been extended by the general committee to the Governors of all the States included in the organization of the United Confederate Veterans and it is confidently expected that in view of the importance of the occasion many will accept.

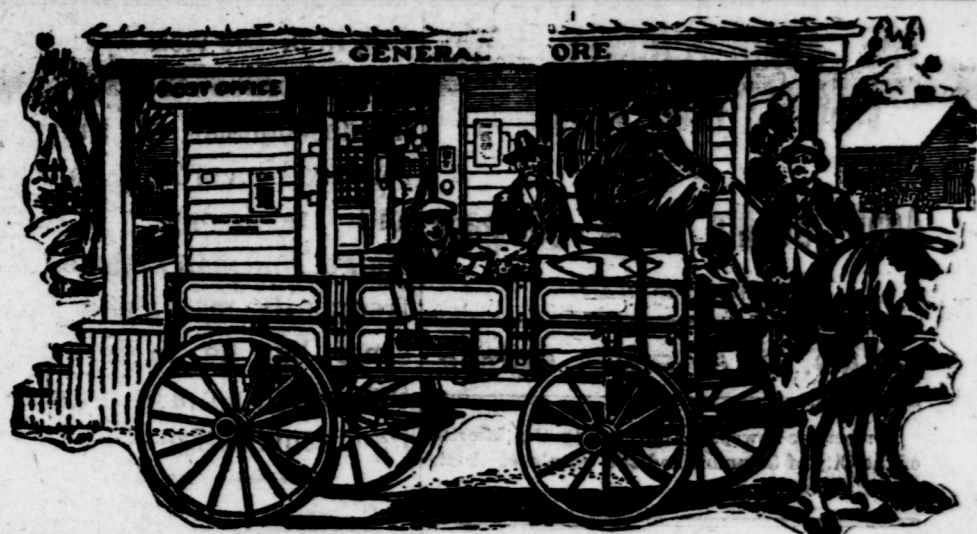

In addition the committee has invited to be present the following ladies, wives of distinguished Confederate chieftains: Mrs. J. E. B. Stuart, Mrs. W. H. Fitzhugh Lee, and Miss Mary Custis Lee.

Richmond is preparing to observe with fitting ceremonies the semicentennial of its rise from the ashes.

This is the "Thornhill" Wagon—the Wagon that Must Make Good

The best known materials—the labor of master workmen—the aid of the most ingenious modern machinery have been employed to make the Thornhill wagon.

The wheels are made with excessive care. For the spokes the manufacturers use the finest hickory—machine driven to insure the right dish. The hubs are of oak, thoroughly seasoned and banded with double refined sable iron.

The bolsters are of the best white oak. They have an iron plate at top and bottom, riveted through and through—multiplying their strength.

The "Thornhill" has a malleable front bound plate that is braced to the hounds at all points. This is an exclusive "Thornhill" feature. It prevents the gears from ever getting out of line and causing hard pulling.

"Thornhill" wagons are equipped with long sleeve malleable—non-breakable skeins that insure light running, and outlast any other skein. Each skein is fitted to its axle with a Defiance machine—infallibly accurate. This machine insures the right pitch and tuck, makes light draft a certainty.

The axles are of toughest hickory—the steel axles of the best refined steel.

The sides of "Thornhill" beds are made of poplar. It costs the makers more—but it holds paint better and gives better service.

Come in and see this wagon—sold under a binding guarantee.

FOR CIRCUIT COURT CLERK.

We are authorized to announce Lee A. Lawless, a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Court Clerk of the County of Russell, subject to the action of the Republican voters of said county, as expressed at the August primary.

In the Judicial district made up of the counties of Green, Taylor, Marion and Washington, Judge I. H. Thurman is a candidate for re-election. He enjoys the distinction of being one of the best Judges in the State, a gentleman who has had an enviable reputation as a lawyer since early manhood—a just man and a just Judge. He knows no man on the bench, and when the facts in the case are brought before him, the rich and the poor are accorded the same rights, his decisions at all times being rendered according to the law and testimony in a case. Judge Thurman's name has been frequently mentioned for Governor, but he prefers to serve the constituents of his district as its Circuit Judge.

Seemingly there is less interest throughout the State in the present race for Governor than ever before known in Kentucky politics. In this immediate section the candidates are seldom mentioned, and we venture the assertion that not one fifth of the Democrats of Adair have announced who they intended to support. About Columbia there have been some expressions, and we find the vote divided between McDernott, Cherry and Stanley, but at the same time no voter seems to be very enthusiastic. Later the buzz may start, but at present the breeze is perceptibly calm. As to subordinate positions, Hon. M. M. Logan, who is a candidate for Attorney General, is about the only aspirant who has out spoken following.

Last week we published a card from Hon. Lilburn Phelps, of Jamestown, the wording of which plainly indicated that he was a candidate for Circuit Judge in this the 29th Judicial district. Mr. Phelps is a Republican, and a gentleman who stands high in Russell county, and will, doubtless, be formidable before the people. Judge J. C. Carter has already announced for re-nomination for said position, and it is not likely that any one else will be before the people but himself and Mr. Phelps. Both being true Kentucky gentlemen, we predict their respective canvasses will be pitched upon a high plane. The News, being Democratic, will take no part in the contest.

Leo M. Frank, a Hebrew, who was convicted of murdering a young girl, in Atlanta, Ga., has failed in his efforts for a new trial and will have to be put to death unless his sentence is commuted to life imprisonment, his attorneys having petitioned for the change in the verdict. Frank was convicted of the murder of Mary Phagan, a white girl, on the testimony of a negro boy. The sentiment is greatly divided as to his guilt.

The County Unit law has been held valid by the Court of Appeals, hence the saloons in Shelbyville, Winchester and other places in Kentucky where the dregs won the election, will have to close.

Sherrod Hatcher bought last week, from Brack Cain, a mare and colt for $225; a mule from J. F. Montgomery for seventy dollars. He sold one mare to Tom Bradshaw for $70.

If You are troubled with heartburn, gases and a distressed feeling after eating take a Rexall Dyspepsia Tablet, before and after each meal and you will obtain prompt relief. Sold only by us, 25c.

50,000 LOAVES FOR THE POOR

Great Charitable Act Executed in Louisville by the
"Tanlac Man"

Louisville, April, 28, Fifty thousand loaves of bread will be given away by L. T. Cooper, the "Tanlac man," to the poor people of Louisville.

The "bread line," as this unique charitable act is termed, was inaugurated in Louisville Sunday morning, and between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock, several thousand loaves of bread were distributed to the worthy on the big vacant lot on Walnut St., next to The Daily Herald, in ample time for Sabbath dinner.

Mr. Cooper awarded an order for the 50,000 loaves of bread to the American Baking Company. The bread is of the very best quality.

When seen at The Seelbach, where the noted visitor is stopping, Mr. Cooper said:

"I have anticipated the beginning of this work among the poor with keen interest. I have wanted to perform some small service of this kind in the metropolis city of my native state, Kentucky, for several years.

"Therefore, the initial order for the bread, consisting of fifty thousand loaves, has been given to the American Baking Company, and the work has begun.

"We gave away several thousand loaves Sunday, and each time we will meet the demands."

The sale of Tanlac, the famous medicine being introduced in Louisville by the personal direction of Mr. Cooper, is now very great, and is steadily increasing. The results in cases of catarrhal affections, or stomach, liver and kidney derangements, are really remarkable, and many of Louisville's best citizens are testifying to the medicine's marvelous merits.

Tanlac can now be bought in Columbia at Page & Taylor's drug store, the exclusive agent for this place.

An Episode of the Crescent City

By WILLARD BLAKEMAN

It was about 1850 that Arnold Dalmaitre, a cotton factor of New Orleans, went to New York on business.

In the office of a cotton broker in New York was a boy named Alec Tracy, whose health was very delicate. Indeed, the doctors had given him but a short time to live. Tracy, who was but fifteen years old, was assigned to Dalmaitre to perform certain clerical duties and carry messages during the latter's stay in New York. Dalmaitre was one of those men generous, sensitive to their honor, that were typical of the south at that time. He took pity on the boy and, suggesting that a southern climate and a change of scene might restore him to health, offered to take him to New Orleans and give him a position in his office there.

Dalmaitre was a bachelor about forty years old and soon after his return from New York married a woman half his age, celebrated for her beauty. Gay society is usually encumbered with men who consider women a legitimate prey, though the standard of honor in this respect is doubtless higher than it was. A scion of a noble French house, Albert Durier, whose father had left France during the revolution to escape the guillotine, was at that time prominent socially in New Orleans and became devoted to Mme. Dalmaitre. It was not long before his attentions were the subject of remark.

Dalmaitre was not himself socially inclined, and his wife went about a good deal without him. For this reason he did not observe Durier being so much with his wife, and there was no one to caution him except Tracy. The young northerner was conscious of the fact that he owed his life to his benefactor and idolized him. When, therefore, he noticed that Dalmaitre needed a friend to warn him of the danger in which his wife was being placed he considered how he could do so with the least damage to all concerned.

But the more he thought about it the more clearly he saw the difficulties in the way. Not a word could be spoken without bringing on a rupture in Dalmaitre's domestic relations. Tracy believed that the wife was innocent, but imprudent; that she needed to be cautioned, possibly to be withdrawn from the influence of her admirer. This plan, too, he cast aside. Finally he determined to settle the matter with Durier, but in such a way that it would not appear to pertain in any way to the lady.

Meeting Durier at a ball, Tracy, while both were dancing, Durier with Mme. Dalmaitre, purposely shoved him. Durier cast an irritated glance at him, but paid no further attention to the matter. Tracy guided his partner again near Durier and brought about another collision. This time he scowled at Durier, as if to accuse him of being at fault in the matter.

As soon as the music stopped the two men went to another room, where each accused the other of purposely running against him in the dance. Tracy was coolly abusive, tantalizing his enemy into a passion. Finally the latter at a contemptuous remark of Tracy's turned on his heels with the words "You shall hear from me" and, seeking a friend, sent a challenge by him. The episode was witnessed by several persons, who gave the cause as it appeared on the surface.

Dueling at that time was the acknowledged method among gentlemen, especially in the south, of settling disputes, and there was a grove not far from the Crescent City where the duels took place. It was arranged that at sunrise the next morning the parties should meet at this grove and settle at the pistol's mouth which of the two men had joggled the other in the dance. Whether Durier suspected the real cause did not appear.

But there was one person who saw through Tracy's act and had learned the consequences shortly after the words that passed between the two men. Tracy was living in bachelor rooms at the time, and he had scarcely got home from the ball when who should appear but Mme. Dalmaitre.

"This affair between you and Mr. Durier must not take place. Why did you not make your demands on me instead of picking this quarrel with him?"

"I do not understand you, madame." She looked at him keenly for a time, then said, "What do you wish me to do?"

"Nothing."

"My eyes have been opened. I assure you I am perfectly innocent. I will agree never to receive your enemy again. Apologize to him and end the matter between you and him."

"Are you aware that such a course would cause me to be cut by every friend I have?"

"Oh, heavens!"

"You fear that the real cause of the quarrel will be learned by the world."

"Very well. I will send an apology to Durier at once."

She seized his hand and kissed it, then, turning, left him.

The next day Tracy told his benefactor that he had determined to return to New York. Dalmaitre endeavored to dissuade him, but without effect. He departed soon after the episode to escape the contempt of the entire social set of New Orleans. Mme. Dalmaitre gave up many of her social ties and devoted herself to her husband.

The Claimant

By EUNICE BLAKE

On the estate of Lucien Marivaud, in France, lived a poor man named Soubise and his wife, Marie, the couple having a little son, Francois. M. Marivaud had extensive vineyards, from the product of which he manufactured wine. Soubise had charge of the grape growing, and Marivaud not only valued his services highly, but was very fond of him. Soubise's wife died, and he soon followed her, leaving little Francois without a home.

M. Marivaud had a son, Victor, about Francois' age. When the latter was left an orphan he was taken to the chateau and became a playmate of Victor. There was a brother of Victor, Louis, much younger than either of these two boys.

When Victor was eighteen he entered the military school and became an army officer. Upon graduating he was ordered to join his regiment in Tonkin. Francois was anxious to see service and, enlisting in the same regiment, went out with Victor, who agreed to interest himself in his promotion that he might become an officer.

A year later after a fight Lieutenant Marivaud was reported missing. This meant that he had fallen into the hands of the Chinese, in which case it was quite likely that he had been murdered. When nothing was heard from him for several years he was given up by his family, and when his brother, Louis, came of age he inherited the family patrimony, his father having died without a will. M. Marivaud had purposely omitted to make one because he never ceased to hope that his son would one day turn out to be among the living.

Ten years after the departure of Victor Marivaud, when there was no member of the family living, Louis, who had for some time possessed and managed the wine business, became engaged to Hortense Villaret, the daughter of a neighbor. Mlle. Villaret belonged to an aristocratic family, but the estate had been confiscated during one of the many changes in the sovereignty of France, and she was very poor. She and Louis were much in love with each other, and her father favored the match because Louis was wealthy and could enable Hortense to return to the style of living to which the family had formerly been accustomed.

All went happily for the lovers till a few weeks before the day set for the wedding. Then one day a man appeared at the chateau claiming to be Victor Marivaud. Louis was but twelve years old when his brother left home, and, granting that this man was Victor, he would not have remembered him. There was no other person at hand who had been familiar with Victor to identify him.

But the claimant was able to tell of many incidents that had happened on the estate, which went far to prove that he was what he claimed to be. He explained his long absence in this wise: During the fight in which he was reported missing he was knocked on the head by the butt of a musket in the hands of a Chinaman and stunned. When he came to himself he remembered nothing of the past, not even his name. The dead were lying about him; the wounded had been removed. He arose and walked till he came to a city, where he eventually entered the service of a French merchant. After passing through various vicissitudes he was taken suddenly ill and was removed to a hospital. After having been delirious on returning to his former condition he had exclaimed, "You rascally Chinaman, take that for yours!" But seeing a nurse before him instead of a Chinaman he appeared much surprised. He had returned to a normal state, remembering that he was Victor Marivaud.

His appearance was a terrible blow to the lovers, for, according to the French law of inheritance, Victor Marivaud was the owner of the estate, including the wine business. He told Louis so many things that had occurred during the latter's childhood that Louis became convinced that the stranger was his brother. Nevertheless it was not to be expected that he would be pleased to see a brother of whom he had no remembrance and who would dispossess him of his property. But the severest blow was that M. Villaret immediately withdrew his consent to his daughter's marriage unless it could be proved that the claimant was an impostor.

There was an old blind woman living on the place, who, on hearing of the claimant, desired that he be brought to her. She asked him a few questions, which seemed to trouble him, though he answered them correctly. Then the old woman directed that he be uncovered to the waist. This was done, and her hand was guided to his chest. She slid her hand around to his side under his right arm, and it rested on a small lump the size of a pea.

"This is Francois Soubise," she said. "I lived with his mother when he was a little boy and often dressed and undressed him. I know him by this lump."

That ended the pretense.

Louis Marivaud after this attempt to impose on him went to Tonkin and made a search for his brother, Victor. But, although he spent much time on the matter, he failed to obtain any information whatever. Victor never returned.

LAWYERS' WORK FOR FRANK.

Highest Court to Sit in Full For Second Time on Georgia Murder Case.

What amounts to a stay of execution in the case of Leo M. Frank of Atlanta, Ga., who was found guilty of the murder of fourteen-year-old Mary Phagan, an employee of the pencil factory of which Frank was superintendent, was issued by Associate Justice Joseph R. Lamar of the United States supreme court. He granted an appeal which for a second time brings the case before the highest court in the land. Following is a chronological history of the case:

May 24, 1913.—Leo Frank indicted for the murder of Mary Phagan, a girl who worked in a pencil factory in Atlanta. James Conley, sweeper in the factory, also held. Aug. 4.—Trial begins in Atlanta. James Conley testifies against Frank. Aug. 25.—Frank found guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan.

Feb. 17, 1914.—Conviction affirmed by the supreme court of Georgia. Feb. 23.—A. McKnight, negro, makes an affidavit that his evidence against Frank was false. March 4.—George Eyles, another witness who testified against Frank, repudiates his testimony. March 7.—Frank is sentenced to death. April 12.—Lawyers for Frank assert that his conviction was invalid in view of the fact that he was not in court when sentence of death was passed on him. April 19.—A. McKnight recants his repudiation of testimony. April 24.—Lawyers for Frank try to show that James Conley is guilty of murdering Mary Phagan. April 25.—Frank is examined to determine if he is sane and is found to be normal. May 10.—A motion is made to annul the verdict against Frank. Nov. 14.—New trial is denied Frank and his conviction is sustained. Nov. 20.—Supreme court of Georgia denies a writ of error to Frank. Nov. 21.—Application is made to the supreme court of the United States for writ of error. Dec. 7.—The supreme court refuses a writ to review the Frank case. Dec. 9.—Frank addresses court in Atlanta and asserts his innocence; is again sentenced to death. Dec. 21.—Appeal for certificate of "probable cause" for appeal denied by Judge Newman in Atlanta. Dec. 23.—United States supreme court grants an appeal.

MEXICANS ARE STARVING TOO.

Red Cross Reports That Hundreds of Thousands Are in Need.

Hundreds of thousands of people in Mexico are starving, according to advices which reached this country. From Monterey Consul General Hanna reported a condition of serious famine. It developed that the American Red Cross and private citizens are now doing relief work in Mexico on a large scale and that the continuance of revolution has had a much more serious effect than had been realized in this country.

This is a new phase of the Mexican situation and indicates most impressively the general demoralization of the country. It is expected that hunger will play an increasingly important part in Mexico from now on and that these conditions will add to the confusion and anarchy. The Red Cross gave out the following message from Consul General Hanna:

"After four years of war this whole country is short of food. I will make all supplies and money go as far as possible."

How Hadley Proposed.

The way President Arthur Twining Hadley, according to a Yale legend, asked his prospective father-in-law for permission to marry his daughter was characteristic. At the time this gentleman, Luzon B. Morris, occupied an anomalous political position. He had recently been elected governor of Connecticut, but his claim was disputed, and the state was in a political turmoil.

"Mr. Morris," was the way Mr. Hadley approached the subject of his call, "I hope that I—at least—may be permitted to—to call you—governor."—World's Work.

Precaution.

"Why did you insist on having your new servant arrive on Saturday?" asked the neighbor.

"There's no train back till Monday," replied Mrs. Crosslots. "We wanted to be sure of having help for our Sunday dinner."—Washington Star.

COULD SCARCELY WALK ABOUT

And For Three Summers Mrs. Vincent Was Unable to Attend to Any of Her Housework.

Pleasant Hill, N. C.—"I suffered for three summers," writes Mrs. Walter Vincent, of this town, "and the third and last time, was my worst.

I had dreadful nervous headaches and prostration, and was scarcely able to walk about. Could not do any of my housework.

I also had dreadful pains in my back and sides and when one of those weak sinking spells would come on me, I would have to give up and lie down, until it wore off.

I was certainly in a dreadful state of health, when I finally decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I firmly believe I would have died if I hadn't taken it.

After I began taking Cardui I was greatly helped, and all three bottles relieved me entirely.

I fattened up, and grew so much stronger in three months, I felt like another person altogether."

Cardui is purely vegetable and gentle-acting. Its ingredients have a mild, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution.

Cardui makes for increased strength, improves the appetite, tones up the nervous system, and helps to make pale, sallow cheeks, fresh and rosy.

Cardui has helped more than a million weak women, during the past 50 years. It will surely do for you, what it has done for them. Try Cardui today.

DEVELOPMENTS IN WAR SITUATION.

The German Admiralty announced to-day that a British submarine was sunk five days ago in Helgoland Bay, which lies between the mainland and the Island of Helgoland, one of the most important German naval stations. It is said British submarines have been observed and attacked repeatedly in this bay and that others probably have been destroyed.

In Petrograd it is asserted that attacks of Austrian forces on the Russians who invaded Northern Hungary have failed. The Austrians attempted outflanking movements along the section of the Carpathian line where the Russians succeeded in reaching the Hungarian plains, but according to the information from Petrograd they were put to route with large losses.

In France and Belgium yesterday there was a continuation of the minor operations such as have been under way of late. Small successes are claimed by the Germans, but the French communication gives no new details.

A Geneva dispatch says Austrian and German subjects in Switzerland have been recalled to their respective countries. It is also reported that the Italian Government has requisitioned all Italian vessels engaged in trade with the United States.

The deadlock in the negotiations between Austria and Italy has been broken and hopes of a settlement of the questions at issue without resort to arms have been revived in Rome. It is not known by persons other than those closely concerned what change has taken place to relieve the apparently hopeless situation but Rome assumes that either Austria or Italy has made some concession.

Italy has been represented previously as demanding in their entirety the Trent and Istria districts, as well as the Dalmatian Islands in the Aegean, whereas Austria was believed to be willing to yield only a comparatively small part of this territory.

A strong Turkish army is preparing to offer resistance to the land forces with which the Allies expect to attack the Dardanelles fortifications from the rear. An Athens dispatch says the Turks have entrenched themselves strongly along the coast of the Gulf of Saros. It is in this vicinity, according to unofficial advices yesterday, that 20,000 British and French troops have landed. Turkish encampments along the coast are being bombarded by warships of the Allies.

The Determination of the German offensive and the high cost to the Allies of an advance are shown again in the fighting near Ypres, as when the British took Neuve Chapelle last month. Since the capture of Hill No. 60 by the British, the Germans have made one attack after another in the attempt to regain this important strategic position. The losses on both sides are believed to run into the thousands. So far as has been disclosed, the British have succeeded in retaining the hill.

Petrograd reports that during the last fortnight there has been artillery fighting in Northern Russian Poland, near the East Prussian frontier. The Russians are said to have won the advantage. The check to the Russian advance in the Carpathians, ascribed in Berlin to Russian defeats, is said in Petrograd to be due to spring floods, which make maneuvers difficult.

BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE.

London, April 22.—The British expeditionary force in France, which at the beginning of the war consisted of six divisions, has been increased to more than thirty-six divisions, or, roughly speaking, 750,000 men, according to a statement made by David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the House of Commons.

The Chancellor added that the place of every man who had fallen in battle had been filled and that the army was adequately equipped. But he reiterated the need for a greater supply of munitions, declaring that during the battle of Neuve Chapelle more ammunition was used than in the whole of the South African war, which lasted nearly three years.

The interesting information was also given out that the output of the munition factories had been increased more than nineteenfold since the outbreak of the war, but the call was still for more, and, as Mr. Lloyd-George continues to hold the opinion that consumption of liquor is interfering with the work he promised legislation to deal with this matter.

The figures made public by the Chancellor as to the size of the British army in France and expenditure of ammunition has caused great surprise in England where the opinion has been general that about half that number of men had reached the front, especially as there has been no sign of any decrease in the number of Khaki-clad men training in this country.

It is likely that many of the new men have already been under fire, as the Germans are making repeated attempts to recapture Hill 60, near Ypres, which the British took on Sunday, and have, according to Field Marshal French's report been repulsed with great loss.

Whitley county has voted bonds for pikes. 3,000 voted for it, 500 against.

The Murderer.

(BY MRS. G. W. WHITE)

His hand is white, upon it gleams a ring;
His brow is sunny, and he wears a smile;
You would not dream that e'er so foul a thing
As blood, red blood, was staining him the while
That all the rising waters of the Nile
Could not efface the sea's eternal flood
Can never wash from man the stain of blood:
A murderer! Oh, did he lift that hand
Of whiteness with a dagger in its clasp,
And, while his angry breath in fierceness fanned
His victim, press with furious, frenzied grasp,
Until the glittering blade stabbed through a heart?
Or did he send a swiftly speeding ball
Crashing into a brain, as though a dart
Of vivid, cleaving lightning bade one fall?
Or did he mix some deathly, treacherous draught,
And give it slyly in a kindly way;
And, while the weak, unconscious victim quaffed,
Sport lightly, as the tiger, with its prey?
In velvet touches who would feel alarm?
In soft words what is there for one to dread?
Instinct alone the ruder breast doth arm;
Man, duller, trusts the foe that strikes him dead.

A murderer! Oh, 'tis a sorry tale
That I am telling; you will weep, I know.
He had a mother once—wan, fainting, pale,
She held him closely ere she let him go,
And as the light went out from her blue eyes,
She sighed for wondering what his fate would be.
If she can gaze from yonder far-off skies,
I hope, I pray, her boy she may not see.
They laid her cold and still, within a grave;
And careless training gave the paths of sin
A flowery brightness; he was bold and brave,
And what a noble man he might have been!
But, by and by, he wanted gold—the need
Is felt by nearly all—and so, one day,
He put a sign up you may plainly read:
"Liquors and wines sold here by Reuben Gray."

Left their few dimes and dollars in his hand,
He starved their wives and children, giving gin
And rum in place of food and house and land;
Gayly and oft he stirred the poison up,
By certain deadly, nauseous murderous rules,
And laughed to see men, trembling, lift the cup,
And chuckled at the folly of the fools.
If women went with broken hearts to him,

He turned them out into the cruel street;
What were their rags, cheeks hollow, eyes grown dim?
Or what their little children's naked feet?
While money jingling went into his till,
At sobs and prayers he mocked—his breast was stone;
The pulse of the universe might thrill, and he would stand as marble, all alone.
O mother, lying in your lonely tomb,
Your boy the weak of earth has long beguiled;
Better your couch of dust and mold and gloom,
Than lean from heaven to see him thus defiled.
If you shall wait forever for your child
While many a happier mother kisses hers,
Men may look out upon the world and say:
"We made the laws that stole her boy away,
And we, as well as he, are murderers." A nation, most magnificently great,
The hideous role of Pilate stoops to play;
It sells the death sign at the doors of State,
And license gives to wile frail souls away.
I would not sit in judgment, but I know
That in God's bosom wrath will some time stir;
And he will cry, that darkening day of woe,
How dared he make this man a murderer?

The Latest.

FRANCE.

The Germans are pouring troops into Flanders to press the attack which at its beginning forced the Allies back to the Yser Canal. To force their way through to Calais is supposed to be their intention. The Canadians, who held the extreme left in the British line near Ypres, by rallying with fierce counter attacks, enabled the Allies to regain much of the ground conceded.

ITALY.

Diplomats are watching Italy, which seems to have reached no decision. By the postponement of the Council of Ministers, it is inferred that negotiations with Austria are proceeding.

GERMANY.

The Germans have their submarine warfare again under way. They captured the Danish steamer Nidaros; the Norwegian barks Oscar and Eva and the Swedish steamer Ruth were torpedoed; the Norwegian steamer Caprivi was blown up by a mine off the English coast and the Finnish steamer Frack was torpedoed in the Baltic.
